Intended use

Transform your training and development approach.

The ideal solution to distance learning with a web-based customisable training portal hosting up to 500+ hours of ready-to-enrol workplace-related short courses and additional resources. Here at Online Academy, we've been helping businesses to transform their training and development approach with an online skills platform.

Performance Management

Our short courses can be utilised to address skills that employees need to develop or enhance based on their performance reviews and feedback. Implement Online Academy as a performance aid.

In-house Facilitation

In-house training is oftentimes the most economical solution. Our short courses have been specifically designed to be used in a presentation or classroom setting. All short courses include narration and group engagement.

Self Study Advantage

Our technology provides learners with the opportunity to enrol and attend short courses on any device and at their own pace. They can be pre-enrolled according to a plan or attend as many short courses as they like.

Personal Development Plan

Want to use Online Academy in the best way? Assign and instruct specific skills courses to specific people to ensure that their personal and professional development is on the right track. Talk to your training consultant.
